FAMINE

in South Sudan

You can help.

At least 2 million men, women and children in South Sudan face immediate risk of starvation. The World Food Programme has declared a famine in much of what is the world's youngest nation.

There are added challenges of political instability, violence and a changing climate that makes it nearly impossible to raise traditional crops. Yet IMA World Health is the only international public health agency continuing to work there, and does so on your behalf.

Your denomination is a member of IMA World Health. We help the world's most vulnerable communities overcome public health challenges like famine.

Your support will help IMA reach those most in need with emergency food and medical care. Your gift will bring health, healing and well-being when and where it is needed most.

Please give generously. Checks can be made payable to your church, or to IMA World Health, noting "South Sudan" in the memo line. Thank you.
